You know that little voice that says get a life?

NAVY
accelerate your life™

Some people don't want to give up their freedom. Like carrying a company pager. Or spending four years in a dorm room.

Face it: Anything worthwhile requires some commitment. Some sacrifice.

Working out. Studying. Showing up for work on time. Whether you realize it or not, you're always giving up some small degree of freedom. In exchange for something better.

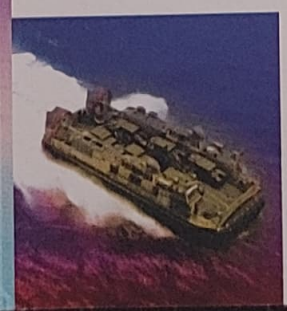
In the Navy, you're expected to apply yourself. To keep fit. And to work regular hours.

You won't give up your life. You won't wear a uniform 24/7. You'll have options. Regarding what kind of work you do. Where you live. And what you do in your free time.

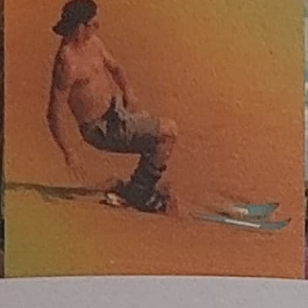
No pagers. No lifelong commitments. Just a steady job. Security. Comparable pay. Outstanding benefits. And the kind of freedom that really means something.

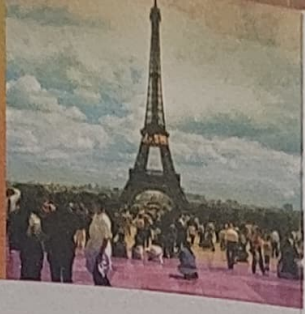
It's real life. That's the point.

Anybody can play with cool toys. Only some of us get paid for it.



Nuclear propulsion. Cutting-edge computers. The most advanced radar systems on the planet. Straight out of high school, you'll be exposed to the latest technology.



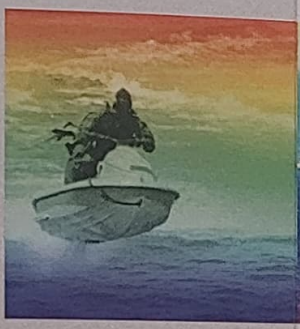


There's nothing wrong with reading about far-off places. But it's better to write home about them.

Africa. Europe. Australia. Asia. Washington. Maine. Virginia. California. And beyond.

With more than 100 ports of call around the world, your opportunities for adventure are endless! In the Navy, you'll write home about places other people only read about.

Some people think a college degree is just a piece of paper. We'd like to think it's a piece of the action.



Pursue your degree while you serve. Or complete your education later. As an enlisted Sailor, you can earn up to $50,000 for college.

In the Navy, earning a degree isn't something you do at the expense of earning a living.

Perhaps you've heard stories about recruiters with hypnotic powers. For the record, we think the truth is much more persuasive.

Talk to your local recruiter. There's no pressure. No commitment. Just the opportunity to get the real story. About jobs you're interested in. Ports of call you'd like to visit. Concerns you have.

Are bikes allowed on board ship? (Yes.)

Can Sailors attend civilian universities? (Yes – and we'll even help you pay for it.)

Does every Sailor have to do a tour at sea? (No – and a tour probably isn't as long as you think.)

What do Sailors do in port? (Plenty. SCUBA dive. Parasail. See the world above and below sea level.)

How's the food? (Not bad!)

There are no stupid questions. We're here to help you find the answers.

You've got one life. Make it count.

Action/Adventure is more than a section in the video store.
